Editorial 4/16

This week marks another high point in the rapid growth years of the Yale Broadcasting Company. As part of a development program which began in 1961 and has included a power increase and new recording facilities, WYBC-FM now has completed its conversion to stereo multiplex. This change adds new depth and direction to our signal. To make a simple analogy, the improvement in listening is similar to the move from hi-fi to stereo record players. From our standpoint, it increases the enjoyment of broadcasting and the technical standards involved.

The installation of stereo multiplex involved a total turnover of equipment. Older items were replaced by their modern counterparts from the best radio equipment manufacturers in the nation. At the same time, new stereo records were purchased to supplement and/or replace the already large classical, folk, and jazz music libraries.

Expansion in tecnhical and programming aspects are not the complete objectives, however, We hope that these improvements will serve as a framework for ever increased public service to southern Connecticut and the Yale communities and will enhance your listening pleasure. And, we invite you to join us in realizing WYBC's new perspectives in FM broadcasting.
